Shahrzad Noorbaloochi is Counsel in Wiggin and Dana's International Trade Compliance practice. She advises multinational companies on U.S. economic sanctions, export controls, and national security regulations, including matters involving OFAC, the EAR, ITAR, and CFIUS.

Shahrzad represents clients before U.S. enforcement authorities, conducting internal investigations and preparing voluntary self-disclosures to the Departments of Commerce and the Treasury. Her practice includes advising on sanctions licensing and compliance, export licensing and classification, ITAR registrations and agreements, and national security risk assessments for cross-border transactions, including the preparation of CFIUS filings.

Prior to joining Wiggin and Dana, Shahrzad practiced at a global law firm, where she counseled Fortune 500 and other multinational clients across the defense, aviation, technology, financial services, and global retail sectors. She also brings in-house experience, having served as senior corporate counsel to a leading multinational technology company, where she advised on global export and marketplace initiatives and supported international expansion through cross-functional risk assessments.

Shahrzad clerked for judges on the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia and the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.
