Christopher Clark is an Associate in the Private Client Services Department, where he focuses on estate and business planning. He provides strategic guidance on trust administration and succession planning, crafting customized estate plans to meet each client's unique needs. Working closely with entrepreneurs, privately held business owners, and investors, Christopher ensures the seamless implementation of legal solutions tailored for long term success.

His legal experience spans both private practice and public service, including roles at the New York State Attorney General's Office, the U.S. Court of International Trade, and the Westchester County Surrogate's Court. These positions strengthened his knowledge in fiduciary audits, trust and estate litigation, and legal research related to probate, estate administration, and guardianship matters.

A graduate of Fordham University School of Law, Christopher earned his J.D. while serving as an Associate Editor for the Fordham International Law Journal. Recognized as a Ruth Whitehead Whaley Scholar, he excelled in academic endeavors, achieving Dean's List honors. Prior to law school, Christopher graduated with a B.A. in International Political Economy from Fordham University, earning membership in Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Iota Rho Honors Society.
