

Editor's note

By Linda L. Randell

This is my last Editor's note and my last issue as editor-in-chief of Infrastructure have greatly enjoyed my three years as editor. I have had the opportunity to work with exceptionally dedicated Section chairs and a wonderful committee. I owe special thanks to Sue Koz, the Section's ABA staff director and to Ray DeLong, our editor at ABA Publishing.

In this issue, we feature Part 1 of an interview with Fred Kahn, a legendary figure in the regulation and deregulation of infrastructure industries. I extend my thanks to Judge Cudahy for arranging for the interview. We also have articles summarizing the energy efficiency and natural gas provisions of this summer's Energy Policy Act.

Effective with this August's ABA annual meeting, I became chair of the Section's program committee. Please e-mail me your thoughts on topics you would like to see covered in the Section's spring program (reserve the date — it's on April 10) and in next summer's annual meeting program, at: lrاندell@wiggin.com.

With the next issue, J.P. Shotwell will take over as editor-in-chief of Infrastructure. Having worked with J.P. for the last three years on the newsletter committee, I am confident that Infrastructure is in good hands. Good luck, J.P.! It's been fun. Thanks.
